

P unw
H

HARVARD COLLEGE.

CLASS OF 1858.

Report of the Class Secretary.

1868.

CAMBRIDGE:
PRESS OF JOHN WILSON AND SON.
1868.

HARVARD COLLEGE.

CLASS OF 1858.

H
Univ
H

HARVARD COLLEGE.

CLASS OF 1858.

Report of the Class Secretary.

1868.

348725
4. 4. 38.

CAMBRIDGE:
PRESS OF JOHN WILSON AND SON.
1868.

7 14 55 E

P R E F A C E.

THIS Report is published in accordance with a vote of the last Commencement meeting, and will be found to contain the substance of the reports previously printed, in 1861 and 1864.

I must thank those of the class (by far the greater number) who have kindly answered my circular letter. It is due, perhaps, to some of them, to state that I am alone responsible for the length or brevity of their biographies. I have endeavored in each instance to give such facts as seemed most worthy of record, and likely to interest friends. The lives and military services of EELLS, LOWELL, MASON, PATTEN, RICHARDSON, and SPURR, are more fully and fitly recorded in the Harvard Memorial Biographies than is practicable within the limits of a class report.

Of those temporarily connected with the class, I have been able, in many instances, to obtain but scanty information. It seemed right, however, to enter their names upon our roll, even if I could only state the date of their leaving college and their residences. I shall gladly receive memoranda concerning them from any source, and hope that this portion of the class records will soon be made more complete.

It only remains for me to return my special thanks to our classmate DAVIS, who has kindly contributed the notices of LOWELL and PATTEN, and revised the greater part of my manuscript.

GEORGE DEXTER.

CAMBRIDGE, 14 July, 1868.

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2008 with funding from Microsoft Corporation

MEMBERS OF THE CLASS.

ABERCROMBIE, OTIS PUTNAM.	FETTE, WILLIAM ELIOT.
ADAMS, HENRY BROOKS.	FOOTE, HENRY WILDER.
ALLEN, CHARLES ADAMS.	FOX, WILLIAM HENRY.
ALLEN, GIDEON.	FRANCIS, GEORGE EBENEZER.
AMES, FISHER.	FROST, HENRY WALKER.
ANDERSON, NICHOLAS LONG- WORTH.	FULLER, SIMON GREENLEAF.
*BARTLETT, WILLIAM PITT GREEN- WOOD.	*GELSTON, ROBERT BRUCE.
BEALS, JOSHUA GARDNER.	GILBERT, HORATIO JAMES.
BIGELOW, ALANSON.	GOODWIN, OZIAS.
BLISS, EUGENE FREDERICK.	GORDON, WILLIAM GILCHRIST.
BRADBURY, CHARLES BROOKS.	GREEN, SAMUEL SWETT.
BRADLEE, JOSIAH.	HALL, JAMES STEVENSON.
BRICK, RILEY ALLEN.	HARTWELL, ALFRED STEDMAN.
BROMBERG, FREDERICK GEORGE.	HAVEN, ALFRED HOUSTON.
BROWN, BENJAMIN GRAVES.	HAWES, MARCUS MORTON.
BURGESS, GEORGE CANNING.	HOLBROOK, DANIEL.
BURT, JOHN OTIS.	HOMANS, JOHN.
CABOT, LOUIS.	HUNNEWELL, HORACE.
*CHADWICK, GEORGE BRADFORD.	KILBOURN, WILLIAM ARTHUR.
CILLEY, BRADBURY LONGFELLOW.	KIMBALL, EDWARD HARRINGTON.
CILLEY, JONATHAN LONGFELLOW.	LAMSON, ANSEL.
COBB, JOHN EDWARD.	LEAROYD, CHARLES HENRY.
CROSBY, GEORGE WASHINGTON.	*LOWELL, JAMES JACKSON.
CROWNINSHIELD, BENJAMIN WIL- LIAM.	MAGOUN, THATCHER.
DAMON, HOWARD FRANKLIN.	*MASON, EDWARD BROMFIELD.
DAVIS, JAMES CLARKE.	MAY, JAMES.
DEXTER, GEORGE.	MILTON, WILLIAM FREDERICK.
DUNNING, WILLIAM HALE.	MURDOCK, SETH MILLER.
EDES, ROBERT THAXTER.	MYRICK, JOHN DOLE.
*ELLS, SAMUEL HENRY.	NOBLE, GEORGE WASHINGTON COPP.
*ELIOT, PAUL MITCHELL.	NORCROSS, FREDERICK MALCOLM.
FAIRCHILD, CHARLES.	NOYES, JOHN BUTTRICK.
	PARK, JOHN GRAY.
	PASCO, SAMUEL.

*PATTEN, HENRY LYMAN.	THURBER, JAMES DANFORTH.
PAYNE, DANIEL CHAMBERLAIN.	TOBEY, GERARD CURTIS.
PHILLIPS, JOHN CHARLES.	TOBEY, HORACE PRATT.
POND, GEORGE EDWARD.	TOPPAN, ROBERT NOXON.
PORTER, EDWARD GRIFFIN.	TOWNSEND, JAMES PERCIVAL.
*RICHARDSON, HENRY AUGUSTUS.	TREADWELL, JOHN PEARSE.
*RUSSELL, NATHANIEL.	VICKERY, JAMES EDWARD.
*SAWYER, AMORY POLLARD.	WALCOTT, HENRY PICKERING.
SHAW, JOSEPH ALDEN.	WARREN, WINSLOW.
*SHOREY, FRANK HOWARD.	WENTWORTH, GEORGE ALBERT.
*SPURR, THOMAS JEFFERSON.	WENTWORTH, SAMUEL HIDDEN.
STODDARD, JOHN THOMAS.	WILLIAMS, SYDNEY AUGUSTUS.
SWINERTON, JOHN PUTNAM.

TEMPORARY MEMBERS.

ALBEE, JOHN.	HATHAWAY, GEORGE CHANDLER.
BARRETT, EDWARD AUGUSTUS.	*HOW, HENRY JACKSON.
CUTTER, RALPH HASTINGS.	JAMIESON, JAMES.
*DORR, HAZEN.	JONES, BENJAMIN DEWEES MAR-
DORR, MORRIS.	SHALL.
*ELLIOTT, WILLIAM.	LAWRENCE, HENRY.
EMERY, SAMUEL HOPKINS.	LEE, WILLIAM HENRY FITZHUGH.
FASSITT, JOHN BARCLAY.	LOWNDES, FRANCIS LEWIS.
GARDNER, JOHN LOWELL.	SPRAGUE, CHARLES DOMINIQUE.
*GATES, JAMES WILDER.	STANWOOD, FREDERICK WILLIAM.
*GIBBONS, WILLIAM.	TOLMAN, GEORGE.
GOODWIN, HERSEY BRADFORD.	WHITRIDGE, ALONZO CLAUDIUS.
GORDON, GEORGE HUNTLY.	WOODS, WALTER HASTINGS.
GRANGER, GEORGE FREDERICK.	WORCESTER, LEIGH RICHMOND.
HALL, WILLIAM PAYNE.

CLASS COMMITTEE.

JAMES C. DAVIS.
 ROBERT N. TOPPAN.
 GEORGE DEXTER, Secretary.

HARVARD COLLEGE.

CLASS OF 1858.

OTIS PUTNAM ABERCROMBIE. — After graduation, he spent a year in Worcester, and began the study of law in the office of Messrs. Devens & Hoar. In September, 1859, he entered the Harvard Law School, and remained in Cambridge three terms. In February, 1861, he removed to Springfield, and entered the office of Messrs. Beach & Bond. He was admitted to the bar in June, and in July received the degree of LL.B. In January, 1862, he opened an office in Milwaukee, Wis.; remaining there until May, 1864, when he removed to Chicago, and opened an office at No. 88 Washington Street. He visited New England in the summer of 1862, and again in 1866. He was present at the Commencement meeting of that year. Address, No. 78 Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

HENRY BROOKS ADAMS. — He sailed for Europe in October, 1858, and passed two years in Germany, much of the time at the universities. Returning to America in November, 1860, he spent the winter in Washington as private secretary to his father, then a member of the House of Representatives. In 1861, Mr. Adams was appointed Minister to the Court of St. James; and the family removed to England in April, where they remained until this spring. After travelling on the Continent, he returned to Boston in July, 1868. He has written several articles for the North American Review. Address, care of Hon. Charles F. Adams, Quincy, Mass.

CHARLES ADAMS ALLEN. — He was teacher of the High School in Concord, Mass., till September, 1860, when he returned to Cambridge, and entered his name as a resident graduate. He was occupied with private pupils until September, 1861, when he entered the Unitarian Theological School at Meadville, Penn. From this he was graduated 30 June, 1864, and commenced preaching in New England. In October, he gathered and organized a society in Montpelier, Vt., and was ordained its minister, 1 March, 1865. The society is called the Church of the Messiah. He has prospered in his work, and dedicated a new church building in January, 1866. Address, Montpelier, Vt.

GIDEON ALLEN, JR. — He went to New York, and engaged in business there, shortly after graduation. He was married, 16 Oct., 1860, to Horatia, daughter of W. Howland, Esq., of Brooklyn. A daughter, named Mary Howland, was born to him in New Bedford, 20 Dec., 1861. In February, 1862, he removed to California, and entered the firm of Messrs. Green, Heath, & Allen, San Francisco. His daughter died there, 13 March, 1862. In April, 1865, he returned to New Bedford. A son, named George Swain, was born 9 Dec., 1867. Address, New Bedford, Mass.

FISHER AMES. — In September, 1858, he entered the Law School, but left it in the following January, to enter the office of Messrs. Brooks & Ball, No. 40 State Street, Boston. He returned to the Law School in September, and took his degree of LL.B. in 1860. The next winter was passed in Dedham, in the office of Erastus Worthington, Esq.; and in April, 1861, he entered Judge Abbott's office in Boston.

He was admitted to the Suffolk bar in October, 1861, and commenced practice at No. 30 Court Street. In September, 1863, he removed to South Boston. He purchased a farm in Hudson, Ill., in September, 1864, and stocked it with sheep; but, finding it unprofitable, sold it in November of the following year, and returned to Boston. He was married at Roxbury, Mass., to Virginia, daughter of the late George Lee, of New Orleans, 19 Dec., 1865. In January, 1866, he went to Yazoo City, Miss., and made arrangements for planting cotton; but, unable to secure laborers, abandoned the enterprise in April, and resumed the practice of his profession in Boston. He was appointed clerk to the City Solicitor in May. A daughter, named Rosalie, was born 14 Feb., 1867. Address, No. 2 Pemberton Square, Boston.

NICHOLAS LONGWORTH ANDERSON. — After graduation, he visited the North West; and, in September, went to Europe with Cabot, Adams, and Crowninshield. Studied at the German universities until November, 1860, when he returned to America. He began the study of law in Cincinnati, but, on the breaking out of the Rebellion, enlisted in the Guthrie Gray Battalion as a private. He was elected adjutant, 21 April, 1861, and commissioned lieutenant-colonel Sixth Ohio, 19 June, 1861. He was at once put in command of the regiment, and was in active service until June, 1864. He shared in the Western Virginia campaigns, and the marches and battles of Generals Buell, Rosecrans, and Thomas. He was slightly wounded at Shiloh, 6 April, 1862, and more severely at Stone River, 1 Jan., 1863, and Chickamauga, 19 Sept., 1863. He was mustered out of service with his regiment, 15 June, 1864. His commission as colonel bears date 19 Aug., 1862. He has since been brevetted brigadier-general for gallant conduct at Stone River, and major-general for distinguished gallantry at Chickamauga; both commissions to date from 13 March, 1865. During the winter of 1864, he was engaged in legal study in Cincinnati. He married Elizabeth C. Kilgour, of Cincinnati, 28 March, 1865. She is the daughter of the late John and — Higbee Kilgour. He went with his wife to Europe, and spent eighteen months in travel. His son, Larz, was born in Paris, 15 Aug., 1866. He resumed his residence in Cincinnati in November. His second son, Carl Kilgour, was born there, 13 Jan., 1868. He writes, "Interrupted twice in my study of the law, I have abandoned it entirely, and am now engaged in the iron business." Address, Cincinnati, Ohio.

* WILLIAM PITT GREENWOOD BARTLETT. — Immediately after graduation, he accepted employment in the Nautical Almanac office, and was assistant computer there until 1861. In July, 1859, he was appointed proctor in the College. During this time he contributed much to the Mathematical Monthly and other newspapers, and was elected a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. In the summer of 1860, he went to Europe with Professor Peirce, to attend the anniversary meetings of various scientific societies. He took his degree of A.M. at the Commencement of 1861. He resigned his proctorship in November, 1862, but continued his connection with the Nautical Almanac. His father died in the summer of 1864, and his family removed to Cambridge in the following October. About this time, his health, which was never robust, began to fail; and he was not spared long to enjoy his new home. He died at his mother's house, 13 Jan., 1865.

JOSHUA GARDNER BEALS. — In September, 1858, he entered the Harvard Law School, but left it in March of the following year, to enter the office of the Boston Daily Post newspaper, where he still continues. He was married 25 Oct., 1865, to Edith Ware, daughter of George W. Simmons, Esq., of Boston. A daughter, Gertrude, was born 21 May, 1868. Address, No. 42 Congress Street, Boston.

ALANSON BIGELOW, Jr. — After graduation, he entered the store of his father's firm, Messrs. Bigelow Brothers & Co., Boston. He married, 26 Nov., 1862, Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of George Lane, Esq., of Newton. A son, named Alanson, was born 21 Dec., 1863. A second son was born 3 Feb., 1868. He was admitted a partner in the business, 1 April, 1868, and the name of the firm changed to Bigelow, Kennard, & Co. He resides in Cambridgeport. Address, No. 331 Washington Street, Boston.

EUGENE FREDERICK BLISS. — In September, 1858, he entered the law office of Messrs. Conger and Hawes, Janesville, Wis. In 1859, he accepted the position of private tutor in the family of Mrs. Frederick Dabney, and sailed for Fayal, 17 Sept. He returned to Boston in May, 1861, and soon after resumed his studies in Janesville. He was admitted to the bar, 14 June, 1862, and to practise in the Supreme Court, 10 July. In September, 1863, he removed to Cincinnati, and opened a private classical school. He took the degree of A.M. in 1866. Address, Cincinnati, Ohio.

CHARLES BROOKS BRADBURY. — He was appointed instructor of mathematics in Trinity School, New York, 15 Sept., 1858. In the autumn of 1863, he was made first assistant master of the school, and still holds this position. He took his degree of A.M. in 1861. On 1 July, 1863, he was married to Emily Harriette, daughter of Solomon and Harriette N. Sykes, of Peekskill, N.Y. A son, named Charles Fox, was born to him, 4 Nov., 1864. Address, Morrisania, N.Y.

JOSIAH BRADLEE, Jr. — In October, 1858, he went to Europe, and remained there, travelling, and studying music, until August, 1863. He married, 17 March, 1864, Alice, daughter of F. B. Crowninshield, Esq., of Boston. He sailed again for Europe, 30 March, and returned in about a year.

He has one child, a son. Address, No. 142 Tremont Street, Boston.

RILEY ALLEN BRICK. — After graduation, he succeeded to the iron business established by his father in New York. He took charge of the Bergen Iron Works, 1 Feb., 1859, and continues engaged with them. He married, 10 Jan., 1861, Hannah Stone, daughter of Charles H. Brown, Esq., of Boston. His son, Arthur Wilkinson, was born 7 Oct., 1867. He is director in the Bridgeport and the Westchester County gas companies; in the New York Bible Society, and Young Men's Christian Association; and trustee and treasurer of the House of Mercy. Address, No. 89 White Street, New York.

FREDERICK GEORGE BROMBERG. — After graduation, he spent some time in Mobile, engaged in study and teaching. In January, 1860, he was in New Orleans, in business as an agent for Bromberg & Son, pianoforte makers. In June, 1861, he returned to Cambridge, and studied chemistry in the Lawrence Scientific School. In September, 1863, he was appointed a tutor of mathematics in Harvard College. He resigned in July, 1865, and returned to Mobile in the autumn. In June, 1867, he was elected a delegate to the first Republican State Convention held in Alabama, from Mobile. He was appointed city treasurer of Mobile by General Pope, commanding the district, 26 July, 1867. He is still administering the office under this appointment. In February, 1868, he was elected to the State Senate from Mobile, under the new constitution. Address, Mobile, Alabama.

BENJAMIN GRAVES BROWN. — He was in charge of Marblehead Academy from December, 1858, till August, 1861, when he was appointed tutor of mathematics in Tufts College. He held this position until July, 1865, when he was elected Walker Professor of Mathematics. At the same time he received the degree of A.M. from Tufts College. He married in Marblehead, 12 Feb., 1863, Rosalia, daughter of Jonas Wilson Glenton, of England, and Teresa Gonzales, of Leon de Nicaragua. His daughter, Lizzie Teresa Brown, was born 31 Jan., 1864, and died 7 Feb., 1865. His son, Robert Calthorp Brown, was born 1 June, 1866. Address, College Hill, Mass.

GEORGE CANNING BURGESS. — From September, 1858, to 9 August, 1861, he was teacher of the High School in Dighton. In November, 1861, he became cashier of the Dighton Woollen Company. Leaving the woollen business in May, 1864, he became treasurer of the Union Manufacturing Company, in Dighton, in July. Since August, 1866, he has been engaged in the furniture business. He married Emma J. Cobb, of Dighton, 1 April, 1863. A son, named Percival Gordon, was born 20 Feb., 1864. Another son, named George Herbert, was born 28 Nov., 1867. Address, Dighton, Mass.

JOHN OTIS BURT. — He left college in the spring of 1858, and travelled in Europe for about a year. In 1859–60, he was studying medicine in Cambridge with Professor Wyman, and attending the lectures of the Harvard Medical School. In 1860–61, he was studying at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York. He was appointed assistant surgeon in the Navy, 30 July, 1861, and ordered to the Colorado. In September, 1862, he was transferred to the Mississippi Squadron, and ordered to the Conestoga. He resigned his commission on account of ill health, 23 Nov., 1863. He married Helen N. Moulton, of Marcy, N.Y., 25 Feb., 1864, and has since been engaged in the practice of medicine at Syracuse.

LOUIS CABOT. — He sailed for Europe in October, 1858, and remained one year. Shortly after his return, he began the study of architecture in the office of Mr. E. C. Cabot, Boston. He received a commission as second lieutenant, First Massachusetts Cavalry, 26 Dec., 1861. He was commissioned first lieutenant, Second Massachusetts Cavalry, 15 Jan., 1863; captain in same regiment, 12 May, 1863; major in Fourth Massachusetts Cavalry, 25 Jan., 1864. He saw much active service in Virginia with these regiments. He left the army by resignation, 17 Jan., 1865, and has since resided in Brookline, Mass.

* GEORGE BRADFORD CHADWICK. — After graduation, he lived in Salem, and studied architecture, for which he had developed a taste while in college, with George Sewall, Esq., of Boston. In September, 1860, he removed to New York, and studied with R. M. Hunt, Esq. Ill health soon forced him to relinquish his studies. He came to Northampton in May, 1861, in hopes of gaining strength, but failed rapidly, and finally died there, 12 Aug., 1861.

BRADBURY LONGFELLOW CILLEY. — He was appointed tutor in Albany Academy, New York, 6 Dec., 1858, and remained there until 14 Feb., 1859, when he was made assistant master at Phillips Exeter Academy, which place he still holds. He took his degree of A.M. in 1862. He married, 3 Aug., 1864, Amanda C., daughter of John, and Amanda (Currier) Morris, of Dover, N.H. A son, named Frank Morris, was born to him 12 Dec., 1866. Address, Exeter, N.H.

JONATHAN LONGFELLOW CILLEY. — After graduation, he began the study of medicine with Dr. Muzzey, in Cincinnati. During 1863, he was carrying on a farm in Glendale, O., ill health having compelled him to give up his medical studies. In 1864, he served in the Seventh Ohio National Guard (one-hundred-days men), and afterwards went into the navy, and served on the Mississippi river gunboats. He took his medical degree from the Miami Medical College of Cincinnati, 1 March, 1866, and was appointed one of the physicians in the Commercial Hospital of that city. Address, Cincinnati, Ohio.

JOHN EDWARD COBB. — Immediately after graduation, he began the study of medicine with Dr. Hubbard, in Taunton. He attended lectures in the Harvard Medical School, and was also house pupil in the Chelsea Marine Hospital. He took his degree of M.D. in March, 1861, and opened an office in Weir Village, Taunton. In May, 1861, he went into the navy as acting assistant surgeon. He was on the Ino in 1861: on the Kensington, Western Gulf Squadron, in 1863. In October, 1863, he was ordered to the supply steamer Newbern, North Atlantic Blockading Squadron. In February, 1865, he was ordered to the Florida. He resigned his commission, 11 May, 1865, having been married to Abby Tobey, daughter of the Hon. Willard Nye, of New Bedford, 12 Jan., 1865. He settled in Taunton, and is engaged in the practice of his profession.

GEORGE WASHINGTON CROSBY. — He was taken sick with fever shortly before our Class Day, and confined at home with illness for nearly a year. In the spring of 1859, he was teaching in Brooklyn, N.Y.; and in Bradford, in the autumn. The following winter, he taught in King George County, Va. In 1860, he was in his brother's jewelry store in Boston. He became bookkeeper to Messrs. Tower & White, Hanover Street, Boston, in 1862. During 1863-4 he occupied the same position with Messrs. Wilcox, White, & Co., Winter Street. Since 1865, he has been bookkeeper to Messrs. R. H. White & Co., Nos. 44 and 46 Winter Street, Boston.

BENJAMIN WILLIAM CROWNINSHIELD. — In October, 1858, he sailed for Europe, and spent the winter in Hanover. Passing the next winter in Berlin, he returned to this country in November, 1860, and entered the office of the Merrimack Manufacturing Co., of which his father is treasurer. He was commissioned first lieutenant, in the First Massachusetts Cavalry, 19 Dec., 1861; captain, in the same regiment, 26 March, 1862; major, 10 Aug., 1864. He distinguished himself in several engagements in Virginia. He served on the staff of Major General Sheridan, as aide-de-camp and provost marshal general, from 26 July, to 1 November, 1864. He was discharged from the army, at the expiration of his term of service, 7 Nov., 1864. He took his degree of A.M. in course, in 1861. He was married, 15 Dec., 1866, to Katherine May, daughter of James Bowdoin Bradlee, Esq., of Boston. He has one son, named Bowdoin Bradlee, born 13 Oct., 1867. He removed to New York, and entered the dry goods commission business, 1 Jan., 1867. The name of his firm is Sprague, Colburn & Co. Address, Nos. 55 and 57 White Street, New York.

HOWARD FRANKLIN DAMON. — Immediately after graduation, he began the study of medicine at the Harvard Medical School, and in 1861, received the degree of M.D. At the same Commencement he took his degree of A.M. He was appointed district physician to the Boston Dispensary in 1862, and shortly afterwards, its superintendent. He was appointed admitting physician to the City Hospital in 1864; in April, 1868, a new department, for the treatment of skin diseases among out patients, having been established, he was selected to take charge of it. He is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society; the Boston Society for Medical Improvement; and the American Medical Association. To the anniversary meetings of this last, he has been three times a delegate, and at its Boston meeting, he was one of the committee of arrangements. He is Secretary of the Boston Society for Medical Observation, and of the Boston Obstetrical Society. He delivered a poem before the Mercantile Library Association, in November, 1858, which has since been printed. He gained the Boylston medical prize, with an essay on "Leucocythemia," 5 Aug., 1863, which was published in the next year. He has since published

“Neuroses of the Skin,” and “Photographs of the Skin.”
Address, No. 2 Decatur Street, Boston.

JAMES CLARKE DAVIS. — After graduation, he began the study of law in his father’s office in Greenfield, and pursued it there, and in the Harvard Law School (where he spent a year), until 16 Jan., 1861, when he was admitted to the bar, and became a member of his father’s firm at Greenfield. On 1 January, 1862, he removed to Boston, where he has since practised law at No. 30 Court Street. He was appointed clerk to the Attorney-General of the Commonwealth, 18 Jan., 1865; and Assistant Attorney-General, 1 April, 1868. He has prepared for the city of Boston “A Digest of Decisions of Municipal Interest of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts,” which was published by the city in 1866. Address, No. 30 Court Street, Boston.

GEORGE DEXTER. — In August, 1858, he sailed for Europe, and travelled in Germany and France. Returning in December, he entered the Harvard Law School in March, 1859. He took his degree of LL.B. in 1860, and passed the next year in Cambridge as a resident graduate. He sailed again for Europe in July, 1861, and returned in July, 1862, resuming his residence in Cambridge. In May, 1864, he went to garrison the batteries at Provincetown, Cape Cod, in the Twelfth Unattached Company, M.V.M. He returned in August. He sailed again for Europe in September, 1865, and spent the winter in Paris. He travelled in England, and returned to this country in June, 1866. He was engaged in business in Maine during the autumn; but finding it unprofitable, he gave it up, and returned to Cambridge in February, 1867.

WILLIAM HALE DUNNING. — The first year after graduation, he was classical tutor in Williston Academy, Easthampton. He then returned to Cambridge, and entered his name as a resident graduate. In September, 1860, he entered the Andover Theological Seminary, from which he was graduated 3 Aug., 1863. He was ordained and installed as pastor of the First Congregational Church in Rockport, Mass., in February, 1864. On 7 April, of that year, he was married to Katherine Kelley, daughter of the Hon. Alfred, and Mary (Welles) Kelley, of Columbus, Ohio. In October, 1865, he obtained leave of absence for a year from his parish, on account of ill health, and immediately sailed for Europe. He resumed his parochial duties in November, 1866. His health was not so good as his friends could wish; and in September, 1867, he was, at his own request, dismissed from his pastoral charge. He made a visit to Ohio, and spent the winter in Augusta, Ga., whence he wrote that he was endeavoring to re-establish his health in a mild climate. He has one child, a son, named Arthur Wilkinson, born 23 Sept., 1867. He has since returned to Ohio.

ROBERT THAXTER EDES. — After graduation, he spent three years in the study of medicine in Boston, and other places; receiving the degree of M.D. from Harvard College, in July, 1861. He applied for the position of assistant surgeon in the Massachusetts Volunteers; but accepted a similar place in the navy, 10 Sept. He decided to offer himself for the regular service; and, after examination, was appointed, 30 Sept., and ordered to the Naval Hospital, Brooklyn. In December, he was ordered to the mortar flotilla, under command of Admiral Porter, then fitting out at Brooklyn. His vessel, the flag-ship of one of the divisions, sailed in February, and had a share in the bombardment of Fort Jackson. His commission as assistant surgeon, dated 26 Jan., 1862, reached him about this time. The flotilla went up the river to Vicksburg, and took part in the siege of that place. He was transferred to the Black Hawk in August, 1863. He remained on this vessel until July, 1864, the most noteworthy event in his service being a share in the Red river campaign. On 14 July, he was ordered to the Naval Hospital at Chelsea, where he remained until 13 May, 1865, having in the mean time passed his examination, and received a recommendation for promotion. His rank of passed assistant surgeon dates from 8 May, 1865. He was ordered to the Colorado, flag-ship of the European squadron, on 13 May; but, having waited only to be notified of promotion to send in his resignation, his connection with that vessel was very short. His resignation was accepted 1 June, 1865. He sailed for Germany 26 Aug., and spent some time in medical study in Vienna, Paris, and London. He returned to Boston in February, 1866, and began practice in Dorchester, but removed to Hingham, 26 June, 1866. He married, 30 April, 1867, Elizabeth Townsend, daughter of Calvin W., and Anna K. Clark, of Boston. A daughter, named Annie, was born 2 May, 1868. He is a member of the Boston Natural History Society, and of the school committee of his town. He has lately received the prize offered by the Medical Association for the best essay on "Nature in Disease." Address, Hingham, Mass.

*SAMUEL HENRY EELLS. — After graduation, he went to Detroit, Mich., to reside in the family of his guardian, G. N. Fletcher, Esq., and began the study of medicine with Dr. C. H. Barrett. He also attended the medical lectures of Michigan University, at Ann Arbor, during the winter of 1860-61. He never received the degree of M.D., not having completed the full course of study.

He was appointed hospital steward in the Twelfth Michigan Volunteers, then in camp at Niles, 7 Feb., 1862. In March, the regiment was sent South, and shared in the battle of Shiloh, where Eells was taken prisoner with the regimental hospital. He was held only a few days; there being an agreement between the surgeons on both sides, that the wounded in the joint hospitals should be allowed to return to their respective camps on recovery, and their hospital attendants with them. The regiment was soon attached to General McClelland's division of the reserve, and employed in guard duty at various points on the railroad lines, chiefly at Bolivar, Tenn.

He received a commission as assistant surgeon of his regiment, 1 Feb., 1863. Early in June, it was ordered to join the army collected before Vicksburg, and was stationed at Snyder's Bluff until the fall of Vicksburg, 4 July, 1863. The regiment was next attached to the expedition sent up the Big Black river. The country and the season were both perilous; and Eells probably contracted his disease by exposure at this time. In August, he joined General Steele's expedition into Arkansas, and suffered much from chills and fever, and ulcerated sore throat. He remained at Little Rock until 1 Dec.; then returned to Detroit on sick leave. When he reached home, he could not speak above a whisper; and, though he seemed to improve at first, his lungs were soon found to be seriously affected, and he rapidly lost strength. He died of bronchial consumption, at his uncle's house in Detroit, 31 Jan., 1864.

* PAUL MITCHELL ELIOT. — His life in college served only to strengthen his taste for business pursuits; and, immediately after graduation, he went to St. Louis, to seek an entrance into commercial life. In January, 1859, he entered the counting-room of the Atlantic Mills Company, where he remained one year. He then entered the store of Messrs. F. B. Chamberlain & Co. While in their employ, in the summer of 1860, he was affected by a sunstroke, from which he never recovered. In November of that year, he left St. Louis, on account of his health; and after spending the winter in Washington, where his father was attending Congress, he returned to New Bedford in March, 1861. His brain became affected by the disease under which he was laboring, and he was placed in a private hospital in New York. Here he had every care and attention, but in vain. He died in New York, 26 Nov., 1862.

CHARLES FAIRCHILD. — After graduation, he began the study of the law in Madison, Wis. He was appointed clerk of the Circuit Court, 1 Jan., 1860. He entered the office of Messrs. Palmer & Stark in Milwaukee, in January, 1861. In April of the same year, at the breaking out of the rebellion, he joined the First Wisconsin Regiment, and served with it in Maryland as ensign and first lieutenant. The term of service of the regiment expired 17 Aug., 1861, and he returned to his home. He was in the employ of Messrs. Fairchild & O'Connor, Wood County, Wis., till 5 March, 1862, when he received the appointment of acting assistant paymaster in the navy, with orders to the gunboat Mahaska. His vessel served in the James river and neighborhood till August, 1863, when it was attached to the South Atlantic Squadron, and shared in the operations before Charleston. He was appointed assistant paymaster in the regular service, 30 June, 1864, and resigned 6 Dec., 1864. He entered the Harvard Law School in the spring of 1865, and left it at the close of the next winter term. He returned to the West, and in January, 1866, was appointed secretary to his brother, then elected Governor of Wisconsin. In December, 1866, he came to Boston, and entered the firm of Messrs. S. D. Warren & Co., paper-dealers. He took the degree of A.M. in 1867. Address, No. 91 Milk Street, Boston.

WILLIAM ELIOT FETTE. — He opened a school for boys, 20 Sept., 1858, in the building in the rear of Beacon-hill Place, Boston. He removed to a room in Allston Hall at the expiration of the second year, and remained there one year. During all this time, his residence was in Cambridge; but in October, 1861, his family removed to Boston, and he transferred his school to their new residence in Boylston Place. Here he remained five years, and gradually raised the grade of his school from an intermediate to a classical school. In October, 1867, he removed both school and residence to No. 42 Hancock Street, and changed the name of the former to West End Latin School. In May of this year, he again removed the school to No. 24 Charles Street; the preparatory department remaining in Hancock Street. He took the degree of A.M. in 1862. Address, No. 42 Hancock Street, Boston.

HENRY WILDER FOOTE. — After some little time devoted to regaining his health, which had suffered from a severe illness during most of our Senior year, he entered the Cambridge Divinity School in October, 1858. From this he was graduated in course in July, 1861. After preaching in several places in the West, and declining an invitation to be settled as minister of the Stone Church in Portsmouth, N.H., he accepted, in November, a call to King's Chapel, Boston, and was ordained its minister 22 Dec., 1861. He took the degree of A.M. at the Commencement of that year. He was married, 9 July, 1863, to Frances A., daughter of the late Hon. Samuel A., and Mary (Lyman) Eliot. His only child, a daughter named Mary, was born 6 Nov., 1864. He has remained constantly at his post in Boston, with the exception of a nine months' vacation, passed in travelling in Europe; sailing from Boston, 13 Feb., 1867, and returning 9 Nov. Address, No. 16 Louisburg Square, Boston.

WILLIAM HENRY FOX. — From graduation until 1860, he was teacher of the academy at Myricksville, and engaged in reading law. In 1860, he entered the office of Judge Bennett, in Taunton, and remained there until 17 Sept., 1861, when he was admitted to the bar. He was elected commissioner of insolvency for Bristol County, 4 Nov., 1862. Governor Andrew appointed him special justice of the Taunton Police Court, 11 May, 1863. After this court was abolished, he was made trial justice at Taunton, in May, 1864. He was appointed principal justice of the new Municipal Court in Taunton, 16 Dec., 1864. This court went into operation, 4 Jan., 1865; and he still holds his office. He married 6 Oct., 1864, Anna M., daughter of James H., and Harriet M. Anthony, of Taunton. He has one son, William Yale, born 26 June, 1865. Address, Taunton, Mass.

GEORGE EBENEZER FRANCIS. — After graduation, he entered the office of the Brooklyn City Water Works, and remained there about one year, when he began the study of medicine at the Chelsea Marine Hospital and the Harvard Medical School. From 16 June, to 1 Sept., 1861, he was volunteer assistant surgeon at Fortress Monroe. Upon his return home, he re-entered the Medical School; and in May, 1862, he was appointed one of the house surgeons at the Massachusetts General Hospital. In August, 1862, after the battle of Cedar Mountain, he was sent by Surgeon-General Dale to Culpeper, as volunteer surgeon to the Massachusetts regiments. His services were not found necessary, and he was made contract surgeon at General Banks's headquarters. He was in Pope's retreat, and at the battle of Antietam, and returned home in October. He received his degree of M.D. in March, 1863, and was appointed acting assistant surgeon, in the navy, 15 May. He served in the West, chiefly on the Mississippi river and at Cairo. He was ordered to the Quichita, a large iron-clad in the Mississippi river Squadron, 3 Jan., 1864. He came home on a short furlough immediately afterwards. At the expiration of his leave, he joined his vessel, and shared in the Red river campaigns. He resigned his commission, 28 Oct., 1865, having just settled to the practice of his profession in Worcester. He was married, 23 June, 1868, to Rebecca Newton, daughter of Frank Harrison, and Elizabeth (Parker) Kinnicutt, of Worcester. Address, Worcester, Mass.

HENRY WALKER FROST. — In September, 1858, he began the study of the law in the offices of Judge Hoar, in Concord and Boston. He attended the lectures of the Harvard Law School in 1859-60. In June of the latter year, he gained the Bowdoin prize for resident graduates, with a dissertation on "The Various Tenures on which Land is held in Different Countries, considered as affecting the Economical and Political Condition of the People." In November, 1860, he entered the office of Messrs. Hazelton & Ware, No. 81 Washington Street, Boston, and was admitted to the Suffolk bar, 11 Sept., 1861. He has since continued the practice of his profession in Boston. He is now also engaged in editing the United States Digest, a compendium of the decisions of the courts of this country and of England, published annually. His first volume (Volume XXV. of the Digest) appeared in May of the present year. Address, No. 81 Washington Street, Boston.

SIMON GREENLEAF FULLER. — In October, 1858, he entered the General Theological Seminary of the Episcopal Church in New York. After spending a year in study there, he removed to the Berkeley School at Middletown, Conn., of which his father was then elected a professor. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Williams at Middletown, 22 May, 1861. He was married, the next day, to Celeste Parmalee, daughter of the late Rev. William Bostwick, of Flushing, L.I. On 8 June, he was invited to the rectorship of St. Matthew's Church, Wilton, Conn., and began his work there immediately. He was ordained priest 12 Sept., 1862. He accepted the rectorship of Trinity Church, Hartford, Conn., 16 Nov., 1863. He became rector of St. Peter's Church, Pittsburgh, at Easter, 1865, and resigned at Easter, 1868, on account of the ill health of his family. Soon afterwards, he accepted a call to St. James's Church, Birmingham, Conn. During his residence in the diocese of Pittsburgh, he was a member of the standing committee, and was also deputy elect to the General Convention. He has two children living: Henry Riley, born 16 June, 1862; William Bostwick, born 29 Jan., 1864. A daughter, Theodora, was born 11 Jan., 1866, but died 24 Feb., of the same year. Address, Birmingham, Conn.

* ROBERT BRUCE GELSTON. — Soon after leaving Cambridge, he entered the law office of his brother-in-law, Hon. Isaac D. Jones, of Princess Ann, on the eastern shore of Maryland. Two years or more spent there enabled him to pass a successful examination, and he was admitted to the bar, 5 Dec., 1861. In the winter of 1862-3, he was very much troubled by asthma, and only recovered to be prostrated by intense neuralgia. All that the highest medical skill and the attentive nursing of a beloved mother and sister could do was unavailing to relieve the violent headache from which he suffered almost constantly. His sight became seriously impaired by the progress of the disease. In the summer of 1865 he grew better, and, with his mother, visited Sharon and Saratoga Springs; but the respite was short, the acute pain returned, and after a few months he sunk under the disease. He died in Baltimore, 3 Jan., 1866.

HORATIO JAMES GILBERT. — In Dec., 1858, he entered the counting-room of Messrs. Morton, Grinnell, & Co., Park Place, New York, where he remained until 1862, when he came to Boston, and entered the hardware business. In the spring of 1867, he made a short visit to Europe. Address, Messrs. Dodge, Gilbert, & Co., No. 37 Kilby Street, Boston.

OZIAS GOODWIN, JR. — After graduation, he entered the law office of J. A. Loring, Esq., Boston. In Aug., 1862, he was appointed second lieutenant, in the Second Massachusetts Regiment; but owing to the deaths of his father, and brother (Captain Goodwin, killed at the battle of Cedar Mountain), he was forced to decline the commission. In November, of the same year, he sailed for Europe, returning in September, 1864. He sailed again in April, 1865, and returned in September. He sailed for the third time in December, 1865, and returned in September, 1866. Since that time he has resided in Boston. Address, No. 29 Mount Vernon Street.

WILLIAM GILCHRIST GORDON. — In September, 1858, he began teaching as an assistant in the Taunton High School, and in February, 1859, was appointed Principal of the Bristol Academy in the same place. He resigned this position in February, 1864, and removed to New Bedford, where he began the study of medicine with his father. In the spring of 1865, he taught in the New Bedford High School. He removed to Springfield, Mass., and opened a school for girls, in September of that year. He enlarged his school, and made arrangements for taking boys as well as girls about a year afterwards. During his residence in Taunton, he was an officer of various town libraries, &c., and since he has lived in Springfield, has been secretary of the Scientific Association there, and an active member of the Hampden County Teachers' Association, before which he read a paper on School Discipline, in June, 1867. He was married, 11 May, 1861, in Taunton, to Sarah Otis, daughter of Otis, and Ann B. Storrs, of Taunton. He has two children: Mabel, born 19 Feb., 1865; and Helen, born 22 June, 1867. Address, Springfield, Mass.

SAMUEL SWEET GREEN. — After graduation, he returned to his home in Worcester, where ill health prevented him from undertaking work of any kind. In June, 1859, he sailed for Smyrna and Constantinople, in the barque Race Horse, returning in November. In September, 1860, he entered the Cambridge Divinity School, but ill health forced him to leave at the end of the second month. He returned to the school in September, 1861, and was graduated in July, 1864. After preaching a few times, he gave up the ministry on account of his health, and in December, 1864, went into the Mechanics' Bank, Worcester, as bookkeeper. He was made teller in the Worcester National Bank, 15 Aug., 1865, and resigned his place 22 May, 1868. He was elected a member of the board of directors of the Worcester Free Public Library, 1 Jan., 1867, and in April of the same year was chosen treasurer of the Worcester Lyceum and Natural History Association. Address, care of James Green, Esq., Worcester, Mass.

JAMES STEVENSON HALL. — After graduation, he returned to Troy, N.Y., and studied law in the office of Messrs. Seymour and Sandford. Since this he has not been heard from by the secretary.

ALFRED STEDMAN HARTWELL. — After graduation, he was tutor in the Washington University of St. Louis until May, 1861, when he enlisted as corporal in Company K, Third Regiment, Missouri Reserve Corps. At the expiration of his three-months term of service, he came to Cambridge, and entered the Harvard Law School. He was appointed first lieutenant in the Forty-fourth Massachusetts, 22 Aug., 1862. This was a nine-months regiment, and served in North Carolina. He was commissioned captain in the Fifty-fourth Massachusetts, 16 March, 1863, and lieutenant colonel in the Fifty-fifth Massachusetts, 30 May. With this regiment he went to South Carolina, and was commissioned its colonel, 3 Nov., 1863. He was brevetted brigadier general United States Volunteers, 30 Dec., 1864, for good conduct in the battle of Honey Hill, S.C. He served in that state and in Florida, and after General Lee's surrender, was placed in command of one of the interior districts of South Carolina. He was mustered out of service, 30 April, 1866. During the next summer, he was engaged in planting cotton on Edisto Island; but in September, he returned to Cambridge, accepted a proctorship in the college, and re-entered the Law School. He was a member of the State Legislature from Natick in 1866-7. He was admitted to the bar, 18 Feb., 1867, and opened an office in Boston, in Court Square, removing, in the spring of 1868, to No. 15 Pemberton Square. He accepted the position of first associate justice of the Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islands in June, 1868, and will begin his duties in August.

ALFRED HOUSTON HAVEN. — He left college at the end of our Junior year, but received his degree as a member of our class in 1867. In March, 1858, he began the study of medicine at the Tremont Medical School in Boston, and received his degree of M.D. in July, 1861. In February, 1862, he entered the United States service as acting assistant surgeon, and was in service four years and a half. He was in charge of the Judiciary-Square Hospital, in Washington, in July, 1862. He was post surgeon at Camp Marshall, near Washington, in 1863. He was surgeon in charge of one of the hospitals of the second division, Alexandria, in January, 1864. He was appointed assistant surgeon, in the Thirty-fifth United States Colored Regiment, in 1865, and was ordered to the Department of the South in August. He served chiefly in, and near Charleston until June, 1866, when the regiment was mustered out of service. He has since practised his profession in New York. Address, No. 75 East Tenth Street, New York, or care A. W. Haven, Esq., Portsmouth, N.H.

MARCUS MORTON HAWES. — After settling his father's business affairs, he entered the firm of Messrs. Fletcher and Hawes, dealers in flour, Boston, in November, 1859. The style of the firm was changed to Fletcher, Hawes, & Co., in January, 1861. He was commissioned first lieutenant, in the Second Massachusetts Vols., 25 May, 1861; regimental quartermaster, 17 July, 1862; and brigade quartermaster, 21 July. After the close of the war, he went into business in New Orleans, and is supposed to be still there.

DANIEL HOLBROOK, JR. — After graduation, he entered the office of Messrs. C. T. & T. H. Russell, State Street, Boston, and began the study of the law. He abandoned this after six months, to take charge of the Academy at Monticello, Sullivan County, N.Y. In 1860-62, he was private tutor in the family of C. Thomas, Esq., Shohola, Penn. He next taught in the House of Refuge school at Randall's Island, N.Y. He took charge of the Tri-States Union newspaper at Port Jervis, N.Y., 1 Oct., 1862, and is still its proprietor and editor. He is also a real estate agent. He was married, 29 April, 1863, to Frances, daughter of Job, and Mary Lockwood, of Boston. He had one child, Maud, born 19 Jan., 1864, who died within the year. Address, Port Jervis, N.Y.

JOHN HOMANS, Jr. — Immediately after graduation, he began the study of medicine at the Harvard Medical School, and took his degree of M.D., March, 1862. For some time previous he had been one of the house surgeons at the Massachusetts General Hospital. He received a commission as assistant surgeon in the regular navy, 24 Jan., 1862, and was ordered to the Aroostook. This vessel served on the James river, and shared in the attack on Fort Darling, the battle of Malvern Hill, &c. Upon going to Washington for repairs, in September, Homans, weary of the monotony of the naval service, and disappointed in the amount of surgical practice, resigned, and, after passing the usual examination, was commissioned assistant surgeon in the army, 22 Nov., 1862. He was ordered to report to General Banks at New Orleans. During the summer and autumn of 1863 he was in charge of St. James's Hospital in that city. In March, 1864, he shared in the Red river expedition as assistant medical director, on the staff of General Banks, and during a portion of the time performed the duties of Medical Director, owing to the absence of that officer. In July, 1864, he came to Virginia with the Nineteenth Army Corps, and served in the Shenandoah Valley, under General Sheridan, as surgeon in chief of the Nineteenth Corps. He was placed on General Sheridan's staff, as medical inspector of the middle division, in November, and served in that capacity until his resignation, 28 May, 1865. In August of that year, he sailed for Europe, and studied in Vienna, Paris, and London, returning in November, 1866, when he began to practise his profession in Boston. He is a member of the Society of Natural History; Boston Medical Association; Medical Benevolent Society; Boston Society for Medical Observations, &c., &c. Address, No. 31 Boylston Street, Boston.

HOLLIS HUNNEWELL. — After graduation, he went into the law office of E. S. Rand, Esq., Boston. In September, 1859, he went to Europe and spent some time in Constantinople as attaché to the French Embassy. He returned to this country in November, 1860, and entered the Harvard Law School. In 1861, he went into business with his father in Boston, where he still remains. He made another visit to Europe in 1866, sailing in March, and returning in November. He married, 30 April, 1867, Louisa, daughter of Frederick Bronson, Esq., of New York. He has one child, a son named Hollis Horatio, born 10 Feb., 1868. Address, No. 13 Exchange Street, Boston.

WILLIAM ARTHUR KILBOURN. — In September, 1858, he accepted the mastership of the High School in Framingham, and remained there until November, 1863, when he became principal of the Lancaster Academy. He married, 7 April, 1862, Ellen Livingston, of Keene, N.H. He has two children, Robert Burrage, born 29 April, 1863; Ellen Livingston, born 22 Oct., 1865. He took his degree of A.M. in 1861. He has served three years on the school committee of Lancaster, and has raised the Academy there to a high grade of scholarship. Address, Lancaster, Mass.

EDWARD HARRINGTON KIMBALL. — During the winter of 1858-9 he taught school in Newington, N.H. The next spring he began the study of the law in the office of Jeremiah Russell, Esq., in Haverhill, Mass. He removed to Mississippi in October, 1859, to take charge of an academy in Brownsville. In July, 1861, he returned to his home in Bradford, and entered the office of J. J. Marsh, Esq., of Haverhill. In the spring of 1862, he went to British Columbia. He has since been heard of in Victoria, and is probably settled in some distant country.

ANSEL LAMSON. — After graduation, he entered the Harvard Law School, but did not remain long. He was engaged in teaching in New York in 1863-64. He took the degree of A.M., in 1867, and is now teaching in Brooklyn, New York.

CHARLES HENRY LEAROYD. — The first year after graduation he spent in Cincinnati, as tutor in the family of Larz Anderson, Esq. He entered Andover Theological Seminary in December, 1859. He was ordained deacon in the Episcopal Church, 10 July, 1862, and was assistant to the Rev. Dr. Huntington, of Emmanuel Church, Boston, during the next winter. In June, 1863, he received a call to the rectorship of Grace Church, Medford, and after being admitted to priest's Orders, in Andover, 24 June, took charge of his parish, 6 Sept., 1863. He was married in Calvary Church, Danvers, 14 Oct., 1863, to Susan Ellen, daughter of Frederick and Almira (Putnam) Perley, of Danvers. He spent a year in Europe, sailing in September, 1865, and returning to the charge of his parish in October, 1866. A son, named John, was born 13 July, 1867, but lived only five days. Address, Medford, Mass.

* JAMES JACKSON LOWELL. — After graduation, he chose the law for a profession. He pursued his studies at home, and was engaged in teaching private pupils until September, 1860, when he entered the law school. In June, 1861, with his cousin William L. Putnam, he commenced to enlist men for a company of the Nineteenth Massachusetts Regiment, to be commanded by Mr. Schmitt, the instructor in German in the College. Orders were soon given transferring the company to the Twentieth Massachusetts Regiment, and Lowell was commissioned first lieutenant in that regiment 10 July, 1861. He was in camp at Poolesville, Md., until the 20th of the following October. In the battle of Ball's Bluff, 21 Oct., he was seriously wounded in the thigh. After recovering from his wound at home, he returned to his company (of which he now took command), in February, 1862. In March his regiment was transferred to the Peninsula, and took part in McClellan's advance upon Richmond. In the battle of Glendale, on the afternoon of 30 June, 1862, he fell mortally wounded, having been shot in the abdomen while dressing the line of his company. He lingered for several days, enduring his pain and the approach of death with unwavering courage and resignation, and died on 4 July. The place of his death was Nelson's or Frazier's Farm, and his remains were buried there by a private of his regiment. They were removed from this resting place by affectionate hands in the autumn of 1865, and placed beside those of his brother, General Charles R. Lowell, in Mount Auburn.

Lowell was rarely gifted in intellectual and moral qualities. He stood easily first among us in scholarship, and his purity and nobility of character, his earnestness, his kindness, made us all love and admire him. A brilliant career of usefulness and honor in civil life seemed to lie open before him when his patriotism and love of freedom led him to encounter the hardships and dangers of war in the service of his country. His memory will always be cherished among us with pride and affection. His short life was filled with high purposes and noble achievements, and was fitly closed by his willing sacrifice of it for the great cause to which he had devoted it. He said, among his last words, that "he felt that his death was altogether right, and hoped they would think so at home."

THATCHER MAGOUN, JR.—Immediately after graduation, he went into the shipping business in the office of his father in Boston. He was admitted a partner, and the style of the firm changed to Magoun & Sons, 1 Jan., 1866. He married, 4 Jan., 1860, Harriot Lombard, daughter of the late Henry A. Norcross, of New Orleans. His first child, a son, was born, 16 Feb., 1861, and named Thatcher, after his father and grandfather. To this boy was duly presented the cradle voted by the class to the first of the new generation. His second son, Henry Norcross, was born 23 Oct., 1862. His daughter, Harriot Martha, was born 3 Feb., 1866. He is a director in the China Mutual Insurance Company, of Boston, and resides in Medford. Address, No. 66 State Street, Boston.

* EDWARD BROMFIELD MASON. — After graduation, he began the study of medicine in Cambridge with Professor Wyman and Dr. Nichols. He also attended the lectures of the Harvard Medical School, from which he received the degree of M.D. in July, 1861. Naturally fond of an out-door life and adventure, he was anxious to join the cavalry service at the beginning of the war, but yielded to the wishes of his family, and applied for the position of surgeon. He was commissioned assistant surgeon in the Fourteenth Massachusetts, 1 March, 1862, and at once joined his regiment, then on the Potomac. He was taken prisoner in August, near Fairfax Court House, but soon released. The regiment (heavy artillery) was mainly employed in garrison duty, and Mason chafed much at the dull routine of his life. In December, however, he was ordered to serve as medical director on the staff of Colonel Cogswell, acting brigadier general; but in January, 1863, he was forced to return to his inactive life in garrison. He applied for a transfer as assistant surgeon to some regiment in the field; but this was found to be against the regulations, and he finally obtained a new commission as second lieutenant, in the Second Massachusetts Cavalry, 4 June, 1863. He returned home to join his new regiment which was still in camp at Readville. Here, at parade one evening, his horse, an undisciplined one, reared and fell backwards upon him, inflicting a serious injury, which, after a fortnight of severe suffering, proved fatal. He died at the house of his sister, Mrs. Cabot, at Readville, 14 Sept., 1863.

JAMES MAY. — After graduation, he studied law with his father in Petersburg, Va., and was living there at the commencement of the war. He was on the staff of General Beauregard of the confederate service, and was severely wounded at one of the Manassas battles. His thigh was shattered, and he has since been obliged to make use of crutches. He now lives at, or near his old home, Petersburg, and is clerk of one of the courts there.

WILLIAM FREDERICK MILTON. — In November, 1858, he went to Manchester, England, and entered the counting room of Messrs. Firth, Slingsby, & Co. After spending a year there, he entered a branch firm at Huddersfield in December, 1859. He visited his home in the summer of 1860. In September of that year he returned to England, and went into the firm of Messrs. Firth, Booth, & Co., in Bradford. He returned to this country in May, 1861, and, after spending a short time with his family, accepted a commission as second lieutenant in the Twentieth Massachusetts, 10 July, 1861. He was promoted to first lieutenant, 12 Oct., 1861, and assigned to the staff of General Dana. He was commissioned captain, 5 July, 1863. He served constantly upon the staff until, with his regiment, he was mustered out of service 24 June, 1864. He removed from Boston to New York, and became a partner in the new firm of Messrs. Wetmore, Cryder, & Co., 4 June, 1866. About a year afterwards he sailed for China on business, and has not yet returned. Address, Messrs. Wetmore, Cryder, & Co., Nos. 73 and 74 South Street, New York.

SETH MILLER MURDOCK. — After graduation, he began the study of the law in the office of Messrs. Bonney, Titus, &

Roe, New York. He also attended the lectures of Columbia College, from which he received the degree of LL.B. in May, 1861. He took his degree of A.M. at the Commencement of this year, and was admitted to the New York bar in July. He practised his profession in the firm with which he had studied, the style of which was changed in 1863 to Bonney, Roe, & Murdock. On 1st January, 1867, he withdrew from the practice of the law, and became engaged in the iron business. He is now agent for the Peekskill Iron Company. Address, No. 7 Nassau Street, New York.

JOHN DOLE MYRICK. — A few months after graduation, he began the study of the law in the office of the Hon. R. H. Vose, in Augusta, Me. In September, 1860, he entered the Harvard Law School. He was on the point of admission to the Suffolk bar in September, 1861, when he was called home to take a commission as second lieutenant in the First Maine Cavalry. This commission is dated 2 Nov., 1861. With his regiment he had a share in all the battles of 1862, — Cedar Mountain, Bull Run, and Fredericksburg. He was promoted to first lieutenant, 7 Dec., 1862, and to captain, 4 Jan., 1863. He led his company with credit on Stoneman's expedition, and shared all the dangers of the famous Dahlgren raid. He had a horse shot under him at Deep Bottom, 16 Aug., 1864. About this time he was stricken down by malarious fever, and forced to return home. But as soon as possible he rejoined his regiment; and after the battle at Dinwiddie Court House, he was brevetted major for meritorious services. At the close of the war, he was ordered to Augusta, in command of 350 men of his regiment, and upon his return to Virginia, was mustered out of service, 1 Aug., 1865. He resumed the study of the law, and was admitted to the Kennebec bar in October, 1865. He applied for and received a commission as first lieutenant, Tenth Cavalry (regulars), 7 March, 1867. He was married, 24 April, to Pauline Jones, daughter of Eben and Eliza (Williams) Fuller, of Augusta, Me. He joined his regiment at Fort Leavenworth, in May, and served on the plains during the summer. The winter was passed at Fort Riley. The regiment took the field again in April, 1868, and is now far to the westward. He was ordered in June to Bangor, Me., to give testimony in the case of the Government against the postmaster at Houlton. He was brevetted captain, United States Army, for gallantry at Dinwiddie Court House, 21 March, 1865, to date from 7 March, 1867. Address, Augusta, Me.

GEORGE WASHINGTON COPP NOBLE. — Immediately after graduation, he accepted an ushership in the Public Latin School, Boston, and retained it until September, 1860, when he entered the Harvard Law School, accepting at the same time a proctorship in the College. In March, 1861, he was appointed tutor of Latin in Harvard College. He was married in New York, 28 May, 1861, to Laura, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Francis L. Hawks. He took his degree of A.M. in 1863. In January, 1864, he was offered the position of Latin professor in Washington University, St. Louis, and removed thither in July. He resigned his professorship in June, 1866, and in October, of the same year, opened a school for boys at No. 21½ Pemberton Square, Boston. He removed his school to No. 40 Winter Street, in May, 1867. He resides in Cambridge, and has three children: Katherine Nash, born 6 Nov., 1862; John, born 5 May, 1864; Francis Lister Hawks, born 22 Dec., 1866. Address, Cambridge, Mass.

FREDERICK MALCOLM NORCROSS. — After graduation, he spent three years in the study of the law in the office of Messrs. Morse & Marshall, Lowell. He did not practise his profession, having become interested in mechanical inventions. He was commissioned second lieutenant in the Thirtieth Massachusetts, 20 Feb., 1862. The regiment served in Louisiana, and in General Butler's official report of the battle of Baton Rouge, Norcross is twice mentioned; "specially commended for leaving the hospital to fight;" and for "daring courage in the field as acting aid to Colonel Dudley." He was promoted to first lieutenant, 19 Aug., 1862. He was wounded at Port Hudson, 21 May, 1863, and came home to recover from his injuries. He was promoted to captain, and assistant quartermaster United States Volunteers, 29 Feb., 1864, and was ordered to report to General Canby at Vicksburg. Since the close of the war, he has been living in New York, engaged in various business enterprises. He is married; but the Secretary has no record of the date, or of the lady's name.

JOHN BUTTRICK NOYES. — After several futile attempts to secure some business occupation, he entered the law office of Messrs. C. T. & T. H. Russell, Boston, 20 Dec., 1858. He entered the Harvard Law School in September, 1859. In May, 1860, he entered the office of Judge Richardson, Boston. Not very long afterwards, he decided to abandon the idea of practising law, and in October, 1860, he entered the bookstore of A. K. Loring, as clerk. He enlisted as private in the Fourth Battalion of Rifles, 13 May, 1861, and did garrison duty at Fort Independence till the middle of July. After an ineffectual attempt to recruit a company, he rejoined the Rifles, now a part of the Thirteenth Massachusetts, 28 July, 1861, and went into active service immediately. The regiment was at Winchester, Cedar Mountain, Thoroughfare Gap, and Bull Run. At this last battle, 30 Aug., 1862, he was slightly wounded. The regiment was engaged at Chantilly, South Mountain, and Antietam. Here Noyes was again wounded, and was not able to rejoin his regiment until February, 1863. He was detailed as clerk at the provost marshal general's office, 14 March, and remained on duty there until towards the last of April. He was commissioned second lieutenant in the Twenty-eighth Massachusetts, 6 April, 1863, and joined his regiment on the battle-field of Chancellorsville, 4 May. He was actively engaged on both days of the battle of Gettysburg, and again at the Wilderness. He was commissioned first lieutenant, 12 May, 1863, and captain, 5 May, 1864. He was in command of his regiment at the charge on the works at Petersburg. He served, during a large part of Grant's campaign, on the staff of General Macy, as inspector and aid. He was mustered out of service, 19 Dec., 1864. He was brevetted major, 13 March, 1865, and has since received the further brevets of lieutenant colonel and colonel, for "meritorious conduct while in command of his regiment before Petersburg." After leaving the army, he remained at home until 24 May, 1865, when he became assistant librarian of the Mercantile Library in Brooklyn, N.Y. On 5th July, of the same year, he entered the employ of Messrs. Woodruff & Robinson, dealers in fish and salt, in New York City. He is a member of the Long Island Historical Society, and continues his residence in Brooklyn. Address, Messrs. Woodruff & Robinson, No. 14 Coenties Slip, New York.

JOHN GRAY PARK, JR. — From graduation until February, 1862, he lived in Boston, and attended the lectures of the Harvard Medical School. In May, 1861, he was appointed one of the house physicians at the Massachusetts General Hospital. He was appointed acting assistant surgeon in the navy, 19 Feb., 1862, and ordered to the Victoria, on the coast of North Carolina. In April, 1864, he was ordered to the Mendota, a new steamer fitting out in New York. In the summer of this year, an attack of illness forced him to obtain leave of absence, which he spent at his home in Groton. In December, he was ordered to the West Gulf Squadron. He was honorably discharged from the service, 6 Nov., 1865. He spent the next winter in study in Boston, and in March, 1866, received the degree of M.D. He began the practice of his profession in Worcester, 19 June, 1866, and still continues to reside there.

SAMUEL PASCO. — In January, 1859, he took charge of the Wankeenah Academy, Jefferson County, Flor., where the commencement of the war found him. He enlisted in the Third Florida Volunteers, 10 Aug., 1861. The regiment, after some little time, was ordered to join General Beauregard's army at Corinth, and was attached to General Bragg's army during his Kentucky campaign. He was frequently detailed as clerk at regimental and brigade headquarters, and at the adjutant general's office. He was in the battle of Chickamauga, and at Mission Ridge, in November, 1863, was left on the field with his leg shattered by a minie ball. He was a prisoner in different hospitals for nearly six months, and then sent to Camp Morton, Indiana. Here he remained until paroled in March, 1865, when he returned to Florida. He resumed his place in the academy, but having been elected clerk of the Circuit Court, he removed to Monticello, the county town, in January, 1866. He has since been appointed clerk of the Criminal Court, and of the Town Council. He writes that he performs much of the office work by deputy, and has given his own time to the study of the law. He expects soon to be admitted to the bar. He is Master of Hiram Lodge, No. 5, and Senior Grand Warden of the Grand Lodge of Florida Masons. Address, Monticello, Jefferson County, Flor.

* HENRY LYMAN PATTEN. — After graduating with high honors, Patten spent a year as tutor in the Free Academy at Utica, N.Y., and in November, 1859, went to Montgomery, near Savannah, Ga., as private tutor. In September, 1860, he accepted an assistant professorship in the academical department of Washington University, St. Louis. He resigned this position, after holding it for a year, and entered the Law School at Cambridge in September, 1861, and was appointed at the same time a proctor in the College. Immediately after the battle of Ball's Bluff, in October, 1861, he applied for a commission, and on 25th of November was commissioned second lieutenant in the Twentieth Massachusetts Regiment, in place of William L. Putnam, and in the same company with Lowell. He continued to serve in this regiment, and took part in all its battles, long marches, and severe duties, until his death. In the summer of 1862 his regiment was actively engaged in the Peninsular campaign, and in the battle of Glendale, both Lowell and Patten were wounded, — Lowell mortally, and Patten with a deep flesh wound in the leg. He rejoined his regiment, after a brief furlough, in season to take part in its next battle, at Chantilly, and he was in the thickest of the fight in the battles of South Mountain and Antietam. He was commissioned first lieutenant, 1 Oct., 1862. He was engaged in the assaults upon the heights of Fredericksburg, under Burnside and under Hooker, and at the battle of Gettysburg behaved with distinguished gallantry, and was wounded in the leg and in the hand. The middle finger of his right hand was amputated, and he was furloughed for a short time. He now received a commission as captain, dated 1 May, 1863. Returning to duty, he went through the fatiguing campaign of Mine Run. He was shot through the hand in the battle of the Wilderness, 6 May, 1864, and, Colonel Macy having been disabled, and Major Abbott killed, the command of the regiment devolved upon him. He was in command of the Twentieth at Spottsylvania, at North Anna, at Cold Harbor, and before Petersburg. In the attack upon the Weldon Railroad, 22 June, by his coolness and strategical skill, and the courage and discipline of his men, an advancing rebel column, which had broken two divisions into confusion before it, was checked and stayed. His commission as major, which he received shortly before his death, was dated 1 May, 1864. On 14th Aug., Colonel Macy resumed the command of the regiment. On 17th Aug., in the fight at Deep Bottom, Patten was wounded by a rifle ball in the left knee. Amputation was performed, and he was removed to Turner's Lane Hospital in Philadelphia. He was tenderly cared for here, and endured his great sufferings with heroic fortitude, writing cheerfully and hopefully of his condition to his friends ; but he had been so much weakened by fatigue, anxiety, and disease, that he could not recover. He died 10 Sept., 1864.

His body was brought to Cambridge, where funeral services were performed in the College chapel, conducted by Presidents Walker and Hill, and Dr. Peabody, and a long procession of officers and students of the College, officers of his regiment and of other regiments, classmates and friends, followed it to Mount Auburn. The stone which marks his grave there was erected by his classmates.

A commission as brigadier general by brevet has been conferred upon Patten since his death, upon the recommendation of General Meade, for gallantry and good conduct at the battle of Deep Bottom.

DANIEL CHAMBERLAIN PAYNE. — In September, 1858, he went to Europe, intending to study architecture in Paris, but was taken sick with fever, and soon returned. In October, 1860, he started in a sailing vessel for Malta, and finally settled to study in Paris. He returned to Boston in August, 1863, and in November, accepted a position on the staff of General William Dwight, then in New Orleans. In December, he was appointed first lieutenant in the United States Colored Troops. He was in the battle of Pleasant Hill, La., in April, 1864, and in Sheridan's army in the Shenandoah valley, in August. He was at home on a short furlough, in January, 1865. After leaving the army, he lived in Boston until 11 April, 1866, when he sailed for Europe. He spent last winter in Pau and Algiers, in ill health, and was in Florence in the spring. Address, care of Messrs. Baring Brothers & Co., London, England.

JOHN CHARLES PHILLIPS, JR. — After graduation, he entered the counting room of Messrs. R. C. Mackay & Son, Boston, where he remained until 28 July, 1860, when he sailed for Calcutta, to take charge of a branch house there. He returned to Boston in July, 1862. In 1864, he made a short visit to England and France. On 1st July, 1865, he formed a copartnership with Mr. William Mackay, in New York, for the purpose of transacting a general commission business. The style of the firm is William Mackay & Co. Their offices were first at No. 64 Broad Street, but have since been moved to No. 53 Beaver Street. Address, New York City.

GEORGE EDWARD POND. — Immediately after graduation, he entered the Harvard Law School, from which he received the degree of LL.B. in July, 1860. For the next six months he was engaged in assisting Professor Parsons in preparing his Notes and Bills; and also wrote several articles for Bouvier's Law Dictionary, and Appleton's Cyclopædia. He entered the office of Messrs. Solier & Dexter, Boston, 1 March, 1861. He was admitted to the Suffolk bar, 7 Jan., 1862, and opened an office at No. 23 Niles's Block. In June and July, he performed guard duty at Fort Warren with the "Cadets." In August, he recruited a company for the Forty-fifth Massachusetts, and was commissioned its second lieutenant, 27 Aug., and first lieutenant, 14 Oct., 1862. The regiment, (nine-months men), served in North Carolina, and was in the battles of Kingston, Whitehall, and Goldsboro'. He was mustered out of service 8 July, 1863, and resumed the practice of his profession at No. 12 Niles's Block. In the spring of 1864, he removed to New York, and became one of the editors of the Army and Navy Journal. Soon afterwards, he became a regular editorial contributor to the New York Times. In May, 1866, he resigned the editorship of the Journal, in order to write, jointly with Mr. Swinton, the Decisive Battles of the War. In the autumn of 1866, he resumed the position of chief editorial writer in the Journal, which he still continues to hold, and also resumed his contributions to the New York Times. He married, in Brooklyn, 29 May, 1866, Emily, daughter of Auguste, and Louise Guerber, of Brooklyn. His daughter, Alice Louise Pond, was born 18 Aug., 1867. From May, 1864, to 1866, he wrote nearly the whole of the editorial articles in the Journal, including the Situation, and the criticism of the military operations. From November, 1866, to the present time, he has written most of the leading articles. He has also written a great deal for the New York Times, in the Minor Topics. He has contributed many articles to the Nation, North American Review, Galaxy (including those signed "Philip Quilibet"), United States Service Magazine, Round Table; and occasional articles for different newspapers. He is now engaged, with Mr. Swinton, in writing a history of the Seventh Regiment National Guard of New York. He resides in Brooklyn. Address, No. 39 Park Row, New York.

EDWARD GRIFFIN PORTER. — He sailed for Europe a few weeks before our Class Day, and spent much time in traveling in Egypt and Syria. He studied in Berlin and Heidelberg, and returning home in July, 1861, entered the Andover Theological Seminary in September. He was licensed to preach by the Norfolk Association, at Braintree, 26 Jan., 1864. In the spring of the same year, while on a visit to the West, he was attacked by fever, and so reduced in strength as to prevent much labor for many months. After graduating from Andover in August, he remained at home in Dorchester, taking charge of the church there during the absence of its pastor. During the next year, he preached occasionally in various places; but did not feel able to accept any proposals for settlement. By the advice of his physician and friends, he sailed again for Europe, 31 May, 1866. After some time spent in England, he went to Switzerland and Italy. Here he studied with great interest the Waldensian movement to give Protestant churches and schools to all the principal towns, and was almost persuaded to accept the charge of the new Italian church at Venice. He went next to Malta, and thence to the East, where he spent the spring of 1867. The work of the American Mission at Beirut, and on the slopes of Mount Lebanon, engaged much of his attention. Afterwards, in Greece, he aided in the distribution of some of the American supplies among the Cretan refugees. Returning through Austria and Germany, he reached Paris in time to see the close of the great exhibition. He arrived at home in January, 1868, and since his return, has been occupied in arranging the materials collected in his journey. He writes that he has under consideration an invitation to the new church in Lexington. He took his degree of A.M. in July, 1861. Address, care of Nathan Carruth, Esq., No. 25 Broad Street, Boston.

* HENRY AUGUSTUS RICHARDSON.—In October, 1858, he commenced the study of medicine at the United States Marine Hospital in Chelsea, then under the charge of Dr. Charles A. Davis. He came regularly to Boston to attend the lectures of the Harvard Medical School, and there received the degree of M.D., in July, 1861. He had previously been appointed assistant physician of the hospital. He decided at once to enter the service of his country, and, after passing the usual examination, was commissioned acting assistant surgeon in the navy, 12 Aug., 1861. This was the first appointment from New England after the breaking out of the Rebellion, and his vessel, the Cambridge, was the first merchant steamer that left the Charlestown navy yard, refitted as a gunboat. Somewhat to his disappointment, his vessel was assigned to the monotonous blockade off Wilmington and Beaufort. However, as always, he faithfully performed his duties, and from the constant exposure incident to them was developed a disease which had already proved fatal to other members of his family. He was forced to resign his commission, 5 June, 1862. He gained some strength in the comfort of home, and spent the summer months in southern New Hampshire. At the approach of winter, desiring a drier climate than that of New England, he went to Minnesota. But the disease had made too deep an inroad, and he returned home in May, fully impressed with the certainty of impending death. He lingered without much pain until 1 July, 1863, when he died at his father's house in Cambridge.

* NATHANIEL RUSSELL, JR. — Immediately after graduation, he returned to Plymouth, and entered his father's counting room. He was naturally very fond of navigation, and embraced an early opportunity to enter the service of the United States Coast Survey. He went, with Captain Harrison, to Eastern Virginia, and, while in discharge of his duties there, was attacked by lung fever. He died, after only one week's illness, in Drummondtown, Accomac County, Va., 25 March, 1862.

* AMORY POLLARD SAWYER. — He was absent from college during almost all the senior year, from ill health. A fishing voyage, on which he went, was of no benefit; nor a long horse-back ride through the mountain region of New Hampshire, undertaken after graduation. He returned to his home and lived quietly, waiting for the inevitable end. He was twice chosen by his fellow townsmen a member of their school committee, and performed such duties as his health would permit. He died at his father's house in Bolton, Mass., 20 May, 1860.

JOSEPH ALDEN SHAW. — After graduation, he was appointed principal of the Academy at New Salem, Mass. Here he remained a year, and then came to Boston, and commenced the study of the law in the office of John Wilder, Esq. In January, 1860, he accepted the position of first assistant master in the Elm Park Collegiate Institute, Litchfield, Conn. He resigned this, in April, 1861, to take charge of the grammar school in West Yarmouth, Mass. He removed again to Connecticut in the autumn, and took charge of a select school in Woodbury. The next summer he was invited to return to New Salem, his first field, and he assumed the charge of the Academy there in September, 1862. Here he remained five years. In April, 1863, he was chosen one of the school committee of the town, and retained the office as long as he resided there. He was married, 18 Nov., 1863, to Eliza Antoinette, daughter of Clark and Nancy (Kendall) Thompson, of New Salem. A son, who lived but a few hours, was born, 16 April, 1865; a second son, named Henry Alden, was born, 3 June, 1867. During his residence in New Salem he wrote two lectures; one on the "White Hills and their Scenery;" the other, on "Chemistry." These have been delivered in various places. He took his degree of A.M. in July, 1866. He removed to Worcester in August, 1867, having accepted the position of teacher of Ancient Languages and Rhetoric, in the Highland Military Academy there. Address, Highland Military Academy, Worcester, Mass.

* FRANK HOWARD SHOREY. — He commenced his legal studies immediately after graduation, in the office of J. H. Wakefield, Esq., No. 10 Court Street, Boston. He was admitted to the Suffolk bar in December, 1859, and began the practice of his profession in the office where he had studied. He had every prospect of success, but symptoms of consumption soon appeared, and he was forced to give up work. He sank slowly under the disease, and died at his home in Dedham, 24 Jan., 1862.

* THOMAS JEFFERSON SPURR. — After graduation, he remained at home for a time in ill health; then commenced the study of the law, at first with the help of a reader, and afterwards unaided, as his eyes, which had troubled him much in college, grew better. He was in the office of Messrs. Devens & Hoar in Worcester, until September, 1860, when he entered the Harvard Law School. His eyes soon began again to trouble him ; and in April, 1861, he sailed for Russia with the hope of improving his health. He was there when the war broke out, and hastened home, arriving in September. After the battle of Ball's Bluff, he was offered and accepted a commission as first lieutenant in the Fifteenth Massachusetts, commanded by his friend, Colonel Devens. His commission is dated 17 Nov., 1861. He at once joined his regiment, and with it shared all the battles of the Peninsular campaign. At the battle of Antietam, 17 Sept., 1862, while dressing the line of his company, he received a mortal wound. His thigh was shattered by a minie ball. Two of his men came where he lay, and offered to carry him to the rear, but he ordered them back to the ranks. The regiment was almost instantly forced to retreat to the shelter of a wood, and the ground where he fell was not again occupied by our troops until after the battle. He lay on the ground all day and all night. The next day the enemy occupied the ground, and a South Carolina officer, a college acquaintance, caused him to be removed to a farmyard near by, and gave him a blanket. Here our forces found him when they re-occupied the ground, three days afterwards. He was taken to the nearest hospital, and then to Hagerstown, where his mother and brother in law joined him. He suffered terrible agony until an operation was performed ; but even then there was no hope of saving his life. He was conscious to the last, met death bravely, and throughout all his suffering, thought only of others. He died in Hagerstown, Md., ten days after the battle, 27 Sept., 1862.

JOHN THOMAS STODDARD. — After a short trip to the West, in the fall of 1858, he settled in Plymouth, and began farming. He was also interested in the ice business, and employed as clerk in the Plymouth Bank until 1863. At that time he became engaged in a Rivet Company, and took charge of a mill for making cotton bagging by a new process, for which he had taken out a patent. He was married, 19 Oct., 1864, to Elizabeth, daughter of Jeremiah, and Mary C. Farris, of Plymouth. A son, named Henry Farris, was born 5 Feb., 1866; a daughter, named Mary Le Baron, was born, 11 May, 1867. He writes that his mill was burned down in January last, and that he is now engaged in rebuilding it. Address, Plymouth, Mass.

JOHN PUTNAM SWINERTON, JR. — From graduation until 1862, he was engaged in teaching a school in Norton, Mass. He was next appointed principal of the academy in Dighton. He resigned this to accept the place of sub-master in the Taunton High School, in September, 1863. He took his degree of A.M. in 1866. In February, 1867, he was promoted to the office of principal in the High School. This place he still holds. Address, Taunton, Mass.

JAMES DANFORTH THURBER. — During the first winter after graduation, he was a teacher in a boarding school in Pottstown, Penn. He returned to his home in Plymouth in February, 1859. In the autumn of that year he took charge of a school in Norton, Mass., but resigned it in the spring to accept the charge of one in Plymouth. He gave this up in December, 1860, and resumed the one in Norton. In April, 1861, he went to Washington, and in July of the same year, was appointed a clerk in the Treasury. Here he remained until 12 Aug., 1862, when he enlisted as a private in the Thirteenth Massachusetts. After serving ten months in the ranks, and sharing the dangers of four battles, in one of which (Antietam) he was wounded, he received a commission as second lieutenant in the Fifty-fifth Massachusetts, 15 June, 1863. He was promoted to first lieutenant, 29 June, 1863; captain, 23 Nov., 1863; and was brevetted major, United States Volunteers, 13 March, 1865. With his regiment, he served in North and South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida. He was in the battle of Honey hill, and in both attacks on James island. He was among the first to enter Charleston after the evacuation. He was officially reported for gallantry after Honey hill, and was a second time wounded at James island. His term of service expired 23 Sept., 1865. He returned to the South as a civilian, and resided in Charleston and Savannah. He returned to Plymouth in December, 1866, and was appointed to a situation in the Boston Custom House, 20 March, 1867. This he still holds. He was married, 12 Aug., 1862, to Mary A., daughter of Amasa, and Esther S. Bartlett, of Plymouth. A daughter, named Elizabeth, was born 5 Sept., 1866; a son, named William, was born 27 March, 1868. Address, Plymouth, Mass.

GERARD CURTIS TOBEY. — After graduation, he was for a short time clerk in the Wareham Bank, but having decided to study law, he entered the Harvard Law School in November, 1858. He received the degree of LL.B. in 1860, and entered the office of Messrs. Brooks & Ball, Boston. In September, 1862, he enlisted as a private in the Massachusetts Light Battery, nine months men. He was admitted to the Suffolk bar in May, 1863. In June, he was offered a commission as first lieutenant in the Second Massachusetts Cavalry, but declined it. He has continued the practice of law in Boston. Address, No. 40 State Street, Boston.

HORACE PRATT TOBEY. — After spending a year at home, in October, 1859, he formed a partnership with Mr. Henry Leeds, Jr., under the style of Messrs. Leeds & Tobey, iron and commission business, No. 23 Broad Street, Boston. In October, 1862, the partnership was dissolved, and he continued the business alone. In 1863, he built a spike manufactory in Cambridgeport. Address, No. 23 Broad Street, Boston.

ROBERT NOXON TOPPAN. — After graduation, he began the study of the law in the office of Messrs. Tracy, Wait, & Olmstead, in New York. He also attended the law lectures of Columbia College, from which he received the degree of LL.B.

in May, 1861. He took his degree of A.M. from Harvard, the same year. He was admitted to the New York bar, 4 June, and began practice at No. 6 Wall Street. He published about this time a translation of Jouffroy's Ethics. He sailed for Europe, 25 June, 1862, and remained there until this spring. He writes that he may possibly return to Europe this autumn. Address, New York.

JAMES PERCIVAL TOWNSEND. — After graduation, he was employed as clerk in the office for the probate of Insolvency in Bristol County, in Taunton. He enlisted as a private in the Thirty-ninth Massachusetts, 13 Aug., 1862. During the greater portion of his term of service, he was on detached duty as clerk in the adjutant general's office, Washington. His regiment was mustered out of service 27 Aug., 1865, and he immediately enlisted in the regular service, retaining his place as clerk. He was discharged the service 12 Sept., 1866, to accept an appointment as first class clerk in the same office (adjutant general of the War Department). This he still holds. Address, Washington, D.C.

JOHN PEARSE TREADWELL. — After spending six months in travelling through the West, he entered the Harvard Law School in March, 1859. After spending a year here, he entered Judge Sanger's office, in Boston, 1 March, 1860. He was admitted to the Suffolk bar in June, 1860. He received the degree of A.M. in 1861; and that of LL.B. in 1862. He has constantly practised his profession in Boston, with the exception of a six months' vacation in 1864, spent in Europe. Address, No. 47 Court Street, Boston.

JAMES EDWARD VICKERY. — After graduation, he returned to Taunton, and began the study of the law in the office of Judge Bennett. He enlisted in the navy as a seaman, 20 May, 1861, and was on the steamer Massachusetts. After his discharge in 1862, he was admitted to the bar, and began practice in Taunton. He went to Europe in 1865. The Secretary is unable to state where he has settled or whether he has returned.

HENRY PICKERING WALCOTT. — After graduation, he began the study of medicine with Drs. Morrill and Jeffries Wyman, in Cambridge. He also attended the lectures of the Harvard Medical School. In May, 1861, he removed to Bowdoin College, Maine, and took his degree of M.D. there. In June, he sailed for Europe, and studied in Vienna and Paris until November, 1862, when he returned and began to practise his profession in Cambridge. In May, 1864, he went to garrison the batteries at Provincetown, with the Twelfth Unattached Company, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, in which he was a corporal. His term of service expired in August, and he returned to Cambridge. He was married, 31 May, 1865, to Charlotte E., daughter of the late Reuben Richards, Esq., of Boston. He went with his wife, immediately, to Europe, and returned in July, 1866. Address, Waterhouse Street, Cambridge.

WINSLOW WARREN, JR. — In November, 1858, he commenced the study of the law in the office of S. Bartlett, Esq., in Boston. He entered the Harvard Law School in September, 1859, receiving at the same time the appointment of proctor in the College. In January, 1861, he re-entered Mr. Bartlett's office, and, 12 March, was admitted to the Suffolk bar. He opened an office at No. 16 Court Street. He received the degree of LL.B. at the Commencement of this year. In May, 1863, he removed to No. 35 Court Street. He was appointed United States Commissioner for Massachusetts, in March, 1864. He was married, 3 Jan., 1867, to Mary Lincoln, daughter of Spencer Tinkham, Esq., of Boston. A son, named Charles, was born, 9 March, 1868. Address, No. 35 Court Street, Boston.

GEORGE ALBERT WENTWORTH. — Immediately after graduation, he was appointed instructor in Phillips Exeter Academy, and still retains the position. He took his degree of A.M. in 1861. He was married, 2 Aug., 1864, to Emily Johnson, daughter of the late Daniel G. Hatch, Esq., of Covington, Ky. He has two children; — Ellen Lang, born 25 July, 1865, and George, born 8 Jan., 1868. Address, Exeter, N.H.

SAMUEL HIDDEN WENTWORTH. — After graduation, he entered the Harvard Law School, from which he received the degree of LL.B. in 1861. He was admitted to the Suffolk bar, 6 July, 1861, and opened an office in Boston. He has continued to practise his profession there. Address, No. 81 Washington Street, Boston.

SYDNEY AUGUSTUS WILLIAMS. — After graduation, he went into business as an insurance agent in Taunton, at first with his father, but since 1864, alone. Address, Taunton, Mass.

TEMPORARY MEMBERS.

JOHN ALBEE. — He left college during our first term, and in September, 1855, returned to Cambridge to enter the Divinity School, from which he was graduated in 1858.

EDWARD AUGUSTUS BARRETT. — He left college during the second term of our Freshman year. His residence then was New Ipswich, N.H.

RALPH HASTINGS CUTTER. — He entered our class at the beginning of the Sophomore year, and left it at the end of the first term of the Junior year. He entered the Junior class of Yale College, and was graduated with it in 1858. In 1863, he was a patient in the State Lunatic Hospital in Northampton, Mass. He was afterwards removed to his mother's house in Hollis, N.H. The Secretary has since heard of him as under the care of a Dr. Brown, of Concord, N.H.

* HAZEN DORR. — He died suddenly in Cambridge, 7 June, 1856.

MORRIS DORR. — He left college during the first term of our Freshman year. His residence then was Boston.

* WILLIAM ELLIOTT. — He left college at the end of our Sophomore year, and entered the University of Virginia. On the catalogue of that College for 1857-58, his name appears as a student in History and Literature, and Law ; but the Secretary cannot discover that he ever received a degree. He entered the confederate service at the breaking out of the war, and is believed to have been killed at the battle of Chancellorsville, 1 May, 1863. He was then an officer of a battery.

SAMUEL HOPKINS EMERY. — He left our class at the end of our Freshman year, and entered the Sophomore class of Amherst College, of which his father is a graduate. From an examination of the catalogues, he would seem to have left Amherst at the end of the Sophomore year. His residence then was Taunton, Mass.

JOHN BARCLAY FASSITT. — He left our class during the second term of our Freshman year, and has since been engaged in business in Philadelphia.

JOHN LOWELL GARDNER. — He left college during the second term of our Sophomore year, and engaged in business in Boston. He was married, 10 April, 1860, to Isabella Stuart, of New York. His son, John Lowell, 3d, died in Boston, 15 March, 1865, aged twenty one months. Address, No. 22 Congress Street, Boston.

* JAMES WILDER GATES. — He left our class at the end of our Freshman year, and entered the Sophomore class of Dartmouth College. He was graduated in 1858, and went to Cardenas, Cuba, to engage in mercantile pursuits. His health failed, and he returned to his home in Cambridge, where he died, 24 Feb., 1863.

* WILLIAM GIBBONS. — He entered our class at the beginning of our Sophomore year. On the evening of 15 Dec., 1855, as he was walking out from Boston, he stumbled over some obstacle, and fell violently to the ground. He rose, and felt no immediate injury from his fall; but the next day was troubled with sharp pain and dizziness; hemorrhage from the stomach followed, and, on the following day, 17 Dec., he died.

HERSEY BRADFORD GOODWIN.—In the winter of 1855-6, he left college on account of ill health, and, 23 Jan., sailed from New York for Melbourne. The vessel, after discharging her cargo there, went to Batavia, and thence Singapore. Here Goodwin left her, and returned home in another vessel, reaching Boston in November, 1856. He then entered the counting room of Mr. R. C. Mackay, afterwards Messrs. R. C. Mackay & Son, in Boston. In January, 1859, he sailed again for the East as supercargo and agent of the ship Dolphin. He spent several months in Batavia, Singapore, and Penang, and returned by the overland route to England, in January, 1860. After a visit to the West, he remained quietly at his home in Boston in poor health. He suffered much from an insidious disease caused by his residence in a tropical climate, and was unable to undertake any regular work. In the autumn of 1862, he joined the paymaster's department of the army, and was stationed at New York. In June, 1863, his health having improved, he decided to return to active business, and, after spending some time in his former office, started for Calcutta, via England, in February, 1864. Here he was established as a commission agent until March, 1866. His life was varied only by a journey into the interior of India. He returned to America by way of Egypt, Palestine, and Europe, and reached Boston in August, 1866. He formed a copartnership with Mr. Frank Hodgkinson, for the transaction of a general commission business, 1 Jan., 1867. The style of the firm is Messrs. Hodgkinson & Goodwin, and their offices are in Boston. During the last winter he made a business visit to Cuba. Address, No. 27 Doane Street, Boston.

GEORGE HUNTLY GORDON. — He entered our class at the beginning of the second term of our Freshman year, and left it to engage in business during the second term of our next year. Address, No. 5 Walnut Street, Boston.

GEORGE FREDERICK GRANGER. — He left our class in July, 1855, and entered the Sophomore class of Bowdoin College. He did not remain more than one year there. He received a commission as first lieutenant in the Ninth Maine Volunteers, 21 Sept., 1862. He was promoted to captain, 23 Sept., and to major, 23 June, 1863. He was wounded in the engagement at Drury's Bluff, 16 May, 1864. He was commissioned lieutenant colonel of his regiment, 6 June, 1864; colonel, 13 Sept., 1864, and brevetted brigadier general, 13 June, 1865. The regiment was mustered out of service, 13 July, 1865. He returned home, and is now engaged in the study of the law. Address, Calais, Maine.

WILLIAM PAYNE HALL. — He left college at the end of our Sophomore year, and went into business at Davenport, Iowa. He returned to Boston in 1861, and went into business at No. 19 India Street. He was married, 10 June, 1863, to Susan P., daughter of James H. Blake, Esq., of Boston. A daughter, named Maria Hallett, was born in May, 1864. Address, Messrs. T. K. Cummins & Co., No. 25 Kilby Street, Boston.

GEORGE CHANDLER HATHAWAY. — He left our class at the end of our Sophomore year, and entered the Junior class of Tufts College. From an examination of the catalogues, he would seem to have left Tufts at the end of his Junior year. In May, 1861, he was heard from in Vermont. He was then practising law in Rutland, and was married. His wife was Miss Dana, of Woodstock, Vt. The Secretary has since heard that he is practising law at No. 229 Broadway, N.Y.

* HENRY JACKSON HOW. — He left our class during the first term of our Freshman year, and re-entered college in the class of 1859, with which he was graduated. He studied medicine for a short time, and then, preferring a more active employment, engaged in business in his native town, Haverhill. After the fall of Fort Sumter, he raised one of the first companies, and was unanimously chosen its captain. The company was joined to the Fourteenth Massachusetts Regiment, and ordered to Fort Warren. Here, How was for some time senior officer; but after the arrival of the colonel, an unfortunate controversy arose, and he was superseded. He was commissioned major in the Nineteenth Massachusetts, 3 Aug., 1861. He distinguished himself in the battle of Ball's Bluff, and captured the only prisoners taken in that affair. In the battle of Glendale, 30 June, 1862, he received a mortal wound, and died after about two hours' suffering.

JAMES JAMIESON. — He left our class during the first term of our Freshman year, and entered the University of New York. His residence then was Boston. The Secretary has been unable to trace him further.

BENJAMIN DEWEES MARSHALL JONES. — He left our class during the second term of our Junior year, and returned to Virginia. He was married before the war broke out, and had a plantation near Petersburg. He was in the confederate service during the war, and lost much of his property. He is supposed to be still living in or near Petersburg.

HENRY LAWRENCE. — He left our class during the second term of our Freshman year, and entered the class of 1859. He was not graduated. He has since been living with his family in New York.

WILLIAM HENRY FITZHUGH LEE. — He left college during the second term of our Junior year to accept a commission in the United States army, and served in Utah. At the close of the campaign he returned to Virginia, married, and was living in Richmond at the commencement of the war. He resigned his commission and joined the confederate army. In this he rose to the rank of major general. In June, 1863, he was taken prisoner by our forces, and was confined in Fortress Monroe. In November, he was sent to Fort Lafayette, N.Y. In December, 1863, his wife died in Richmond. He was exchanged in March, 1864, for General Neal Dow. After the war, he settled on his plantation in Virginia. He was married in Petersburg, 27 Nov., 1867, to Mary Tabb, daughter of the Hon. George W. Bolling, of Petersburg. He resides upon his plantation, White House, Va.

FRANCIS LEWIS LOWNDES.—He entered our class at the beginning of the second term of our Freshman year, and left during the second term, Junior year. He had intended to enter commercial life; but the sudden death of his uncle, Mortimer Livingston, Esq., in whose office a situation was offered him, and the financial crisis of the period (1857), prevented his carrying out his plans. After a year spent in leisure and desultory reading, he commenced the study of the law in the office of Alexander Hamilton, Jr., Esq., in New York. He also attended the law lectures of Columbia College, from which he received the degree of LL.B., in 1861. He was admitted to the bar, by examination, in May of that year, and has since practised his profession in New York. He writes that about a year since he became somewhat engaged in business pursuits, but that he still considers himself a member of the bar. Address, No. 41 Wall Street, New York.

CHARLES DOMINIQUE SPRAGUE.—He left our class during our Freshman year, and is supposed to have engaged in business. His residence then was Gibraltar, Spain.

FREDERICK WILLIAM STANWOOD. — He left college at the end of the first term of our Sophomore year, and returned to his home in New Hampshire. Here he spent several years in comparative leisure, in order to re-establish his health, which was not good. He was appointed town clerk of Hopkinton, in Oct., 1859, to fill a vacancy, and elected to the office in March, 1860. He resigned it in Jan., 1861, and made a visit to the West. Returning home to spend the summer, he made another visit the next winter. Finally, in Oct., 1863, he removed to Chicago, and accepted the situation of chief clerk in the freight department of the Chicago & Milwaukee Railroad. This he retained until May, 1865, when the railway was leased to the Chicago & North-western Company, and he was appointed ticket agent of the Milwaukee division of that road, and of the Columbus, Chicago, & Indiana Central Railroad. These offices he still holds. Address, Chicago, Illinois.

GEORGE TOLMAN. — He left college in April, 1857, and after travelling in the West a short time, accepted a situation in the freight office of the Michigan Central Railroad, in Detroit. He made a visit to New England in 1858, and attended the Commencement of the class. Soon afterwards, he removed to Toledo, Ohio, and was employed in the freight department of the Wabash & Western Railroad. He returned to New England about Dec., 1858. He accepted a clerkship in the Boston & Worcester Railroad office, 1 April, 1859. He resigned this, and entered the office of the New England Farmer newspaper. He was married, 12 June, 1861, to Lizzie B. Adams, of Concord. Address, New England Farmer, No. 34 Merchants' Row, Boston.

ALONZO CLAUDIUS WHITRIDGE. — He left our class during the first term of our Sophomore year, and entered Union College. From this he was graduated in 1858.

WALTER HASTINGS WOODS. — He left the class during the first term of our Freshman year. His residence then was Framingham, Mass.

LEIGH RICHMOND WORCESTER. — His name appears upon the catalogue of our first term, but he had no room in Cambridge. His residence was Ipswich, Mass.

S U M M A R Y.

The names of the temporary members of the Class are printed in Italics.

The present occupations of the Class are as follows :—

THEOLOGY.—Allen (C. A.), Dunning, Foote, Fuller, Learoyd, Porter, — 6. Albee, — 1.

MEDICINE.—Burt, Cilley (J. L.), Cobb, Damon, Edes, Francis, Haven, Homans, Park, Walcott, — 10.

LAW.—Abercrombie, Ames, Davis, Fox, Frost, Hartwell, May, Pasco, Tobey (G. C.), Treadwell, Vickery, Warren, Wentworth (S. H.), — 13.
Granger, Hathaway, Lowndes, — 3.

BUSINESS.—Allen (G.), Anderson, Bigelow, Brick, Burgess, Crosby,
Crowninshield, Fairchild, Gilbert, Hawes, Hunnewell, Magoun, Milton, Murdock, Norcross, Noyes, Phillips, Stoddard, Tobey (H. P.), Williams,
— 20. Fassitt, Gardner, Goodwin (H. B.), Hall (W. P.), Stanwood, — 5.

TEACHING.—Bliss, Bradbury, Brown, Cilley (B. L.), Fette, Gordon
(W. G.), Kilbourn, Lamson, Noble, Shaw, Swinerton, Wentworth (G. A.), — 12.

MISCELLANEOUS OR UNKNOWN.—Adams, Beals (editor), Bradlee,
Bromberg (city treasurer), Cabot, Dexter, Goodwin (O.), Green, Hall
(J. S.), Holbrook (editor), Kimball, Myrick (army), Payne, Pond (editor),
Thurber (custom house), Toppan, Townsend (government clerk), — 17.
Barrett, Cutter, Dorr (M.), Emery, Gordon (G. H.), Jamieson, Jones (planter), Lawrence, Lee (planter), Sprague, Tolman (editor), Whitridge, Woods, Worcester, — 14.

DEATHS.

Bartlett, 13 Jan., 1865.	Russell, 25 March, 1862.
Chadwick, 12 Aug., 1861.	Sawyer, 20 May, 1860.
Eells, 31 Jan., 1864.	Shorey, 24 Jan., 1862.
Eliot, 26 Nov., 1862.	Spurr, 27 Sept., 1862, — 13.
Gelston, 3 Jan., 1866.	Dorr, H. , 7 June, 1856.
Lowell, 4 July, 1862.	Elliott , 1 May, 1863. (?)
Mason, 14 Sept., 1863.	Gates , 24 Feb., 1863.
Patten, 10 Sept., 1864.	Gibbons , 17 Dec., 1855.
Richardson, 1 July, 1863.	How , 30 June, 1862. — 5.

MARRIAGES.

Allen (G.), 16 Oct., 1860, to Horatia Howland, of Brooklyn, N.Y.
 Ames, 19 Dec., 1865, to Rosalie Lee, of New Orleans.
 Anderson, 28 March, 1865, to Elizabeth Kilgour, of Cincinnati.
 Beals, 25 Oct., 1865, to Edith W. Simmons, of Boston.
 Bigelow, 26 Nov., 1862, to Sarah E. Lane, of Newton.
 Bradbury, 1 July, 1863, to Harriette Sykes, of Peekskill, N.Y.
 Bradlee, 17 March, 1864, to Alice Crowninshield, of Boston.
 Brick, 10 Jan., 1861, to Hannah S. Brown, of Boston.
 Brown, 12 Feb., 1863, to Rosa Glenton, of Marblehead.
 Burgess, 1 April, 1863, to Emma J. Cobb, of Dighton.
 Burt, 25 Feb., 1864, to Helen N. Moulton, of Marcy, N.Y.
 Cilley (B. L.), 3 Aug., 1864, to Amanda C. Morris, of Dover, N.H.
 Cobb, 12 Jan., 1865, to Abby T. Nye, of New Bedford.
 Crowninshield, 15 Dec., 1866, to Katherine M. Bradlee, of Boston.
 Dunning, 7 April, 1864, to Katherine Kelley, of Columbus, Ohio.
 Edes, 30 April, 1867, to Elizabeth T. Clark, of Boston.
 Foote, 9 July, 1863, to Frances A. Eliot, of Cambridge.
 Fox, 6 Oct., 1864, to Anna M. Anthony, of Taunton, Mass.
 Francis, 23 June, 1868, to Rebecca N. Kinnicutt, of Worcester.
 Fuller, 23 May, 1861, to Celeste P. Bostwick, of Flushing, L.I.
 Gordon, 11 May, 1861, to Sarah O. Storrs, of Taunton, Mass.
 Holbrook, 29 April, 1863, to Frances Lockwood, of Boston.
 Hunnewell, 3 April, 1867, to Louisa Bronson, of New York.
 Kilbourn, 7 April, 1862, to Ellen Livingston, of Keene, N.H.
 Learoyd, 14 Oct., 1863, to Susan E. Perley, of Danvers, Mass.
 Magoun, 4 Jan., 1860, to Harriot L. Norcross, of New Orleans.
 Myrick, 24 April, 1867, to Pauline J. Fuller, of Augusta, Me.
 Noble, 28 May, 1861, to Laura Hawks, of New York.
 Norcross, —
 Pond, 29 May, 1866, to Emily Guerber, of Brooklyn, N.Y.
 Shaw, 18 Nov., 1863, to Eliza A. Thompson, of New Salem, Mass.

Stoddard, 19 Oct., 1864, to Elizabeth Farris, of Plymouth, Mass.
 Thurber, 12 Aug., 1862, to Mary A. Bartlett, of Plymouth.
 Walcott, 31 May, 1865, to Charlotte E. Richards, of Cambridge.
 Warren, 3 Jan., 1867, to Mary L. Tinkham, of Boston.
 Wentworth (G.A.), 2 Aug., 1864, to Emily J. Hatch, of Covington, Ky.—36.
 Gardner, 10 April, 1860, to Isabella Stuart, of New York.
 Hall (W. P.), 10 June, 1863, to Susan P. Blake, of Boston.
 Hathaway, to — Dana, of Woodstock, Vt.
 Jones, —.
 Lee, —: 27 Nov., 1867, to Mary T. Bolling, of Petersburg, Va.
 Tolman, 12 June, 1861, to Lizzie B. Adams, of Concord. — 5.

BIRTHS.

Allen (G.), a daughter, born 20 Dec., 1861; died 13 March, 1862: a son, born 9 Dec., 1867.
 Ames, a daughter, born 14 Feb., 1867.
 Anderson, a son, born 15 Aug., 1866; a son, born 13 Jan., 1868.
 Bigelow, a son, born 21 Dec., 1863; a son, born 3 Feb., 1868.
 Bradbury, a son, born 4 Nov., 1864.
 Bradlee, a son, born —.
 Brick, a son, born 7 Oct., 1867.
 Brown, a daughter, born 31 Jan., 1864; died 7 Feb., 1865: a son, born
 1 June, 1866.
 Burgess, a son, born 20 Feb., 1864; a son, born 28 Nov., 1867.
 Cilley (B. L.), a son, born 12 Dec., 1866.
 Crowninshield, a son, born 13 Oct., 1867.
 Dunning, a son, born 23 Sept., 1867.
 Edes, a daughter, born 2 May, 1868.
 Foote, a daughter, born 6 Nov., 1864.
 Fox, a son, born 26 June, 1865.
 Fuller, a son, born 16 June, 1862: a son, born 29 Jan., 1864: a daughter, born 11 Jan., 1866; died 24 Feb., 1866.
 Gordon, a daughter, born 19 Feb., 1865; a daughter, born 22 June, 1867.
 Holbrook, a daughter, born 19 Jan., 1864; died in 1864.
 Hunnewell, a son, born 10 Feb., 1868.
 Kilbourn, a son, born 29 April, 1863; a daughter, born 22 Oct., 1865.
 Learoyd, a son, born 13 July, 1867; died five days afterwards.
 Magoun, a son, born 16 Feb., 1861; a son, born 23 Oct., 1862; a daughter, born 3 Feb., 1866.
 Noble, a daughter, born 6 Nov., 1862; a son, born 5 May, 1864; a son, born 22 Dec., 1866.
 Pond, a daughter, born 18 Aug., 1867.
 Shaw, a son, born 16 April, 1865; died a few days afterwards: a son, born 3 June, 1867.

Stoddard, a son, born 5 Feb., 1866 ; a daughter, born 11 May, 1867.

Thurber, a daughter, born 5 Sept., 1866 ; a son, born 27 March, 1868.

Warren, a son, born 9 March, 1868.

Wentworth (G. A.), a daughter, born 25 July, 1865 ; a son, born 8 Jan., 1868. — 46.

Gardner, a son, born June, 1863 ; died 15 March, 1865.

Hall (W. P.), a daughter, born May, 1864. — 2.

